EASTERN POLICY OF GOVERNMENTS OPENLY STATED

Contents of Notes Exchanged Between the United States and Japan.

Free and Peaceful Development of Asia.

NO AGGRESSIONS ARE DESIRED

Washington, Dec. 2.—The notes exchanged between the United States and Japan "declaring their policy in the far east," which have been the subject of correspondence between Secretary of State Root and Ambassador Takahira for some months, were made public at the state department. Accompanying the declaration are two letters, one from Mr. Takahira and one from Mr. Root, the former expressing the belief that a frank avowal of the aims, policy and intention of the two countries in the Pacific would not only tend to strengthen the relations of friendship and good neighborliness between the two nations, but would materially contribute to the preservation of the general peace and the latter declaring "that this expression of mutual understanding is welcome to the government of the United States."

Each letter, in which is included the declaration, is dated Nov. 30, the day on which the exchanges took place. The text of these letters was continued in the Associated Press dispatches from London today. The purpose of the five separate notes was fully set forth in the Associated Press dispatches of Nov. 27 from Washington. In explicit terms, they are as follows:

"1. It is the wish of the two governments to encourage the free and peaceful development of their commerce on the Pacific ocean.

"2. The policy of both governments uninfluenced by any aggressive tendencies is directed to the maintenance of the existing status quo in the region above mentioned, and to the defense of the principle of equal opportunity for commerce and authority in China.

"3. They are accordingly firmly resolved reciprocally to respect the territorial possessions belonging to each other in a settled region.

"4. They are also determined to preserve the common interests of all powers in China by supporting by all pacific means at their disposal, the independence and integrity of China and the principle of equal opportunity for commerce and industry of all nations in that empire.

"5. Should any event occur threatening the status quo as above described or the principle of equal opportunity as above defined, it remains for the two governments to consult with each other in order to arrive at an understanding as to what measures they may consider it useful to take."

Ambassador Takahira, in a statement issued subsequent to the making public of notes declared they were simply a reaffirmation of what was declared by the two governments years ago. It was "something like a transaction between trusted friends."

The ambassador added: "The substance of the instrument which has already found its way to the press, called for exhaustive expression of opinions in this and other countries, and there remains hardly anything to be added. As will be seen in their wording, the notes are simply in the form of a declaration and are not a treaty or agreement. They are simply a reaffirmation of what was declared by the two governments years ago, or a definition of the understanding already existing."

"It is, however, to be noted that the notes which are exchanged between governments of such moral standing as those in the United States and Japan will have great importance in the carrying out of their common policy. Japan has entire confidence in the great moral strength of the United States government and the latter fully trusts in the strong good faith of the Japanese government, as has been amply proved by past experience."

"In this respect it is something like a transaction between trusted friends and it is sincerely hoped that the people of each country will have the same confidence as their own government in respect to the declaration of the other, and in doing so there will be everything to gain and nothing to lose and friendly intercourse and commercial relations will fully be developed."

The substance of the declaration was furnished in advance of its signing to the various governments interested in Chinese affairs, and cordial responses of sympathy and support came from them.

Policemen and Firemen Must Tell About Their Physical Condition and Their Moral Weaknesses, Now

Board of Police and Fire Commissioners Prepares List of Pertinent Queries For Applicants to Answer.

Application blanks must be filled out by applicants for positions in the fire and police departments following the rules of the police and fire commissioners. A man that can answer all of the questions, which are modeled after the civil service requirements, is certain to be well fitted to handle the "billy" or fight the flames. A foot note on the blanks states that men now in the service will not be thrown out, but blanks must be filled out by the employees, so that the board may have a line on the firemen and policemen.

The applicant must be examined by a physician who fills out a certificate that he is sound of body, and weight, height, chest measure are mentioned as well as any physical defects such as loss of fingers and toes. Then the applicant must secure some friend to sign a certificate that he is a man of integrity and that he would not hesitate to employ him, and what the habits are.

The applicant must fill out blanks on the sheet stating any defects of vision or hearing. If intoxicated are used, the kind and amount must be stated, and how much has been used in any one day in the past two years.

If the applicant has been under the influence of liquor in the last five years the circumstances must be stated. Applicant must state if married.

ARMED STRIKERS AND GUARDS FIRE UPON EACH OTHER

Perth Amboy, N. J., Dec. 2.—A hundred armed strikers attacked the National Fireproofing works. Depolies and special guards and strikebreakers returned the fire. Hundreds of shots were exchanged, but no one was hurt. Troops were withdrawn yesterday, as most of the strikers returned to work. Importation of strikebreakers aroused the foreign employees and the battle followed. It is expected the militia will return.

HOODOO ENGINE 199 CUTTING UP AGAIN; JUMPS TIPPLE TRACK IN MECHANICSBURG

Switch engine, 199, of the Illinois Central railroad, has begun its old tricks again, as yesterday afternoon the locomotive jumped the tippie track in Mechanicsburg. The tender was turned over, and the engine plowed its way toward a small house, but remained upright. That it turned over the dwelling would have been crushed. No one was injured in the accident.

The engine was pushing several cars of coal up the incline when the engine left the tracks, and turned the tender over before the engineer could shut off the steam. The cars of coal remained on the track. The track is the proper gauge, and the railroad men are dubious about what caused the engine to leave the tracks. The engine has been and how many are dependent upon him, if he owns real estate, and also how many days have been lost as the result of sickness during the past two years. If he is afflicted with rheumatism the applicant must give the date of his last attack. Employment during the last five years must be answered, as well as any experience as a policeman or fireman. All of the questions must be sworn to before City Clerk Maurice McIntyre. The application blanks will be filled out and placed before the commissioners at the next meeting. The applicants for positions in the fire department must not be under 21 years old or over 35 years, while applicants for positions in the police department must not be under 21 years or over 45 years.

Fire at Central City.
Central City, Ky., Dec. 2.—(Special.)—Burning out of a motor caused the report of a mine fire at the Central Coal and Iron company's shaft. No fire resulted and nobody was hurt. The damage was small. The mine is working as usual this morning.

Loose Leaf Canning In.
Several casks of loose leaf tobacco have been placed on the floor of the C. W. Bonner loose leaf warehouse, North and Harrison streets, but the first sale will not be held until next Monday. Before Monday many other farmers are expected to bring in tobacco. An impression was out that the first sales would be held this morning, and many buyers went to the warehouse. Several large tobacco firms of Louisville were represented by buyers, who were disappointed that the sales did not begin today.

in the Ohio river twice, and has been in more minor mishaps than a person has fingers and toes, but fortunately the accidents are never serious. Recently the engine was in the shops and was given a thorough rebuilding, and many superstitious employees thought that perhaps the hoodoo had been overcome, but the mishap yesterday makes false such belief.

The wrecker was called out yesterday afternoon and the engine was replaced on the tracks and the worse for the mishap. The engine was in use today as usual.

Our Lost His Coat.
J. W. Orr, city assessor, was the victim of a mean thief last night when his overcoat was stolen from the hall of his residence, 509 South Third street. Early in the evening Mr. Orr heard a slight noise as if the front door was opened, but thought some member of the family had returned. This morning his overcoat was missing, but nothing else from the residence.

ESCAPE UNDER A PUSILLARY

Muskogee, Okla., Dec. 2.—A gang of eight men blew a safe in the State bank at Crowder and escaped with all the cash and checks. The explosion aroused the whole town and scores of men rushed out. Four men with revolvers held the crowd at bay while companions secured the loot. The gang escaped easily without pursuit.

East St. Louis Gang.

East St. Louis, Dec. 2.—A gang of burglars, headed by a woman, raided three homes and finally escaped amid a rain of bullets from the police and citizens. The homes of Fred Meeker and George Wade were ransacked.

Joseph Gledeman discovered them. Gledeman opened fire and the police joined in the chase. Fifty shots were fired without effect and the robbers disappeared in railway yards.

Millions for Kentucky.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 2.—Judge Stout sent down from Paris his decision in the suit of the commonwealth, on relation of R. C. Hieatt, sheriff of Franklin county, against the Southern Pacific company and the state board of valuation and assessment. The suit was to compel the state board to assess the Southern Pacific on a valuation of $250,000,000, which would bring the state over a million dollars a year in taxes. Judge Stout does not say what the valuation shall be, but directs the board of valuation to assemble and assess the Southern Pacific according to law. The case will be appealed, but if the decision is upheld it means that the state will get over six millions in taxes for the past five years.

Medical Society Meeting.

The McCracken County Medical society will hold its regular meeting tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the office of Dr. Jeff D. Robertson, Fourth street and Broadway. Dr. Robertson will read a paper on the "Anatomy and Physiology of the Joints." Dr. J. W. Pendley will read a paper on the "Inflammation of the Joints."

Tobacco Sales

Sales of association tobacco have been unusually good at the Paducah salesroom this week and 225 hogsheads have already been sold at prices ranging from 7 to 9 cents. Buyers have been the American Snuff company, the Luckett-Wake Tobacco company, of Louisville, and W. H. Kennedy, a local broker, who represents a number of interests. Manager Wake, of the Luckett-Wake Tobacco company, remained over today and may buy several more hogsheads before he leaves town.

RODMAN CLARK IS ON TRIAL BEFORE SQUIRE CHOLSON

The examining trial of Rodman Clark, charged with the murder of John Davis, a seven-year-old child of Ike Davis, was begun before Magistrate Cholson at his home in the county this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

According to statements of the parents of the boy Clark is a cousin of Mrs. Davis and while employed as a farm hand by Linn Stevens frequently visited the Davis home. Sunday, November 28, Clark and the child left the Davis home, intending to go to the home of Andy Clark, the child's grandfather, and the defendant's uncle. When they did not return when they were expected a search was instituted and Clark was found trying to revive the child, who was in a stupor from alcohol. The child was carried to the home of Andy Clark, the grandfather, and died the next day without having regained consciousness. Dr. Davis, of Lovelaceville, who attended the child, found by the use of a stomach pump that he drank a large quantity of whisky, probably a pint.

Clark claims the child got the bottle of whisky from his pocket and drank it without his knowledge.

Has Mayor Smith Ceased to be His Own Master and Become Catpaw of Little Coterie of Officeseekers?

Report Circulated that He Has Made Deal With Democrats and Faction to Get Rid of Robert Hicks.

Mayor Smith's attitude toward the division of the spoils by the members of the general council is interesting his constituents, particularly the Republicans. No deal can be put over without the concurrence of the mayor's appointees from the First and Fourth wards, and people are wondering whether the mayor, who has heretofore consistently refrained from playing politics and has shown the same consideration to one party as another, has delivered his political soul into the keeping of a faction, which refuses to help the regular organization on election day and makes deals with Democrats to divide the spoils. The mayor has been criticized by partisans in his own party for showing consideration to Democrats; but on the theory that he is holding aloof from political entanglements his friends stood by him, defending his course until now.

But now his two appointments will give the Republicans a majority on joint ballot in the general council, and to the protest of partisans, who believe that to the victor belongs the spoils, has been added the warning of more conservative Republicans, who fear the mayor, not only is taking a part in a deal, but is taking part as the tool of a faction.

It is being said since the creation of the office of city buyer at the instance of Mayor Smith and the appointment of Ed Miller, that Miller has usurped the prerogatives of the mayor, dictated to the mayor the appointment of councilmen satisfactory to him, and then the others have fixed up a state, which includes a lot of Democrats and friends of Miller's faction, to be in handy places for the fray when the next convention comes.

No one believes that Mayor Smith has taken command of the faction because he does not take sufficient interest in mere politics to play the game; but his friends are getting nervous for fear he is playing less than a man's part. If he always these heinous commands and puts his cards in others' hands to play in the council meeting.

It is the mayor's very lack of political knowledge that makes him easy prey to those close to him. As the astute politicians see it, the mayor can't expect to have any Democratic defenders, and if he delivers seven of the ten offices to the Democrats in order to give an insignificant faction some comfort, he will sacrifice that respect, which conservative Republicans accorded his apparent non-partisan sincerity, for their contempt for his pusillity part in the game, and disgust them by the loss of offices, which politically belong to the party organization.

The Mayor's Responsibility.

It is impossible to see how the mayor can avoid criticism, if he follows out his instructions laid down by the state makers. It is known that the mayor did not name a single man on the slate. He desired Wade Brown for license inspector. The first split came, when it was proposed that Dr. Harry Williamson was to be cast aside in a Republican caucus for Dr. W. J. Bass, an officer of the Bryan club in the last campaign. Then this slate was fixed up and the mayor, who was not permitted to name a man on it, was delegated by those, who assume to direct his conduct, to name councilmen, who will do as they are told in the matter of the voting.

The mayor's real friends hope that the reports are not true. They feel that if he is going to take part in a caucus it should be a Republican caucus, not a Democratic caucus, with a few crumbly dough out to a minority faction of Republicans, who would sell their party for $100 a year. They hope if he has walked into any such trap, that he will extricate himself in the hold manner he usually evinces when cornered, and not be led protesting, like a bull with a ring in his nose.

How Deal Was Made.

Those, who claim to be on the inside, say that the minority faction of Republicans refused to abide by the majority of the caucus, and rather than submit in order that all the offices should go to Republicans, they caucused with Democrats and traded Dr. Harry Williamson for Dr. Bass. They refused to swallow Wade Brown, but in order to get Mayor Smith into the deal and appoint the councilmen they wanted, the Democrats had to agree to the defeat of Robert Hicks, who is personally offensive to Mayor Smith. Had it not been for the mayor's protest against Hicks, it is said that even that office would have gone to the Democrats.

Such disloyalty on the part of Republicans has aroused the indignation of party workers outside the general council, and of some inside, and their indignation is being directed toward the mayor, although many are withholding their judgment of him until his appointments are made known.

Hicks' friends, too, are aroused over the deal, which would extinguish him to make way for Dr. Bass. There is considerable talk to the effect that the Democrats, as soon as the Republican members of the general council have delivered their votes to Bass, will break their pledge and support Hicks for license inspector.

Unquestionably any Republican member of the general council, who will participate in the selling out of his party in this manner will be singled out for future consideration.

How It Worked.

"The mayor was easy," said a Democrat, a party to the deal. "The Miller faction has discovered the mayor's weakness—ineordinate vanity. The mayor never had a whim in his life that was not gratified, and as a result, his own sensibilities are deified by him. Anything that touches his sensibilities is sacrilege. He can't brook opposition. Hicks is personally distasteful to his honor. So, all we had to do was to impress him with the danger of Hicks' election, and he was our meat."

Miller moulds him as a potter moulds clay. The office of city buyer was created at a salary of $1,200 a year at the mayor's request and Miller was installed. The city appropriates $1,500 to the poor fund, always handled through the mayor's office and city buyer, but now turned over to the Charity club for distribution. Miller used the mayor's influence to have himself appointed secretary of the Charity club, turning the money over as city buyer and receiving it as secretary of the club.

"When Fairbanks men endeavored to capture this county, Miller, a Fairbanks man, sent the mayor out of the city. It is not Jim Smith's nature to run, either. Miller and his faction killed the Republican ticket this fall and ever took a few jobs at Wade Brown, the mayor's own candidate for city fallier."

"It's a ploy, too, that the mayor, who has such high aspirations himself for the city's good, should, through his personal vanity, be cozened into a compromising position, that threatens to destroy all his good plans and wreck his administration. Just such is politics, and such is the way of the obstinate tyro in the political game."

Fever Scare Abates

Each day more pupils of the public schools return to school, as the danger of the threatened epidemic of scarlet fever and diphtheria has about abated. The health authorities have the situation in hand and Dr. H. P. Sights, city health officer, is encouraged over the situation. Dr. Sights stated this morning that only one case of diphtheria had developed last week, and none of scarlet fever. Should no more cases be discovered it is thought that all of the pupils will be back to their books by next Monday.

FOUR ALARMS IN TWO DAYS RECORD FOR DEC. THUS FAR

Four alarms the first two days of December gives promise that the record run of November with 37 fires will be eclipsed. The cold weather made it hard on the fire-ladles but the fires were of no consequence. Chief Wood expects to have many fires this month as probably many defective flues will be found. Some fires may be had from the Christmas decorations later in the month.

At 6:30 o'clock last night some grass at fifth and Norton streets was on fire and the No. 4 company was called out to extinguish the blaze. About 10:20 o'clock a defective flue caused the roof of the residence of Miss Elsie Doyle, 817 Tennessee street, to blaze. Hose wagons Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4, and the No. 4 truck answered the alarm. The fire was extinguished in short order with the loss not over $25. Miss Doyle and her mother were awakened by the smoke, and fled from the fright.

The home of Mose Washington, colored, 1221 Madison street, caught on fire and company No. 3 and the truck of No. 4 answered the alarm, but the loss will not be many dollars. This morning at 6:15 a pedestrian thought a house was on fire near Eleventh street and Broadway, and box 22 was pulled. Hose companies 1, 2, 3, and truck company No. 4 answered the alarm.

CITY REVOLTS AND PORT AU PRINCE IS IN REBELS' HANDS

Overthrow of Alexis is Complete With Loss of His Own Army.

Little Pu Yi Becomes Emperor of China.

FRANCIS JOSEPH IS HONORED

Port Au Prince, Dec. 2.—The city has revolted against Alexis. Government officers and the palace were seized and General Legitime was made temporary president. Troops, in accord with the insurgents, offered no resistance. It is expected that General Simon, who is now attacking Jacmel, will be welcomed to the city. Alexis' overthrow apparently is complete. Simon is regarded as his most likely successor.

Little Pu Yi Crowned.

Peking, China, Dec. 2.—The coronation of Pu Yi, the 3-year-old emperor, took place today. He assumed the name of Hsuen Tung. The coronation was a brilliant ceremony, although much of the usual pomp was omitted owing to the recent deaths of the emperor and dowager empress. Mourning emblems were removed from the court during the ceremony, but restored afterward.

Francis Joseph Honored.

Vienna, Dec. 2.—It is estimated that two millions of people are participating in the celebration of Emperor Francis Joseph's sixtieth anniversary of his reign. Terrible crowds packed all the streets. The emperor received hundreds of delegations and conferred 3,500 decorations. At least 600 persons were hurt, many fatally, in street crushes.

Fights in Cairo.

Many admirers of bouts will go to Cairo tomorrow night where two high-class bouts will be pulled off under the supervision of the athletic club at the opera house. Kelly, of Chicago, and Zimmerman, a St. Louis boy, will hook up for several rounds of punching. Joe Arcena, middleweight champion of England, will battle with George Baptiste, of St. Louis, for the middleweight championship. Previous to the two big bouts there will be several preliminary bouts between Cairo lads.

In Circuit Court.

Only a short session of circuit court this morning and the business transacted was the hearing of motions in equity cases. This afternoon at 2 o'clock is the time set for hearing of the appeal of M. E. Gilbert from the act of Judge Lightfoot, of the county court, in removing Gilbert as administrator of the estate of W. Y. Griffith, deceased.

Mrs. Flora Wattrip, stenographer in the office of Browning & Hazeltine, was appointed a county examiner to hold office in the office of the law firm where she is employed.

BASKETBALL MAY BECOME POPULAR

Many Local Teams May Organize League Here.

Picked Champion Team May Field Indors of City Against Outside Players.

ENTHUSIASTS HAVE PLANS.

Prospects for the organization of a city basketball league to keep the fans in food for the winter are bright but not until after Christmas is there any promise of championship games. Football has been placed on the shelf until next season leaving the city championship in the balance between the Chess, Checker and Whist club and the Paducah Athletic club. With the spirited rivalry it is believed that a four team city league would not be a drag.

The Elks and the Knights of Columbus, who had creditable baseball teams, are certain to have star fives as both lodges have plenty of available material. The Elks have had a little practice, but only preliminary work. The Chess, Checker and Whist club will have a basketball team after the holiday season, and it is thought that the athletes of the Paducah Athletic club will organize a team.

With four teams in the field it is easy to arrange a schedule and have championship games, which would draw crowds. Then the champion of the league would be in line for games with the teams from Cairo and various colleges that have played on Paducah fields.

High school boys will have a team among the boys, and it is certain that the high school girls will have four teams. Last year the girls of the high school fought it out for the championship, and the games drew so well that the girls' athletic fund had a neat little balance in it at the end of the season. Basketball has never been a general winter sport in Paducah, but with the hants fall of hungry fans there is no excuse for the slack in the winter game.

The gymnasium in the Eagles' building is the most available place, but repairs are needed before the gym will be in the best of shape for the games. With several active players pushing the league prospect there is hope of a basketball league.

Briensburg, Ky., Dec. 2. (Special.)—The funeral of David Collie, the blacksmith who committed suicide yesterday morning by shooting himself through the head, was held this afternoon with burial in the Lee cemetery near Star Line Works, across the Tennessee river. Mr. Collie left a wife and four children: Miss Floy Collie, of Paducah; C. W. Collie, of Louisville; Buren Collie and Van Collie, 10 years old by his second marriage. W. D. Collie, a brother, resides at Grand Rivers.

Mr. C. W. Collie, his son, a former insurance agent of Paducah, arrived early this morning from his home in Louisville, and left this morning to attend the funeral. Miss Floy Collie, who is bookkeeper and assistant cashier of the Paducah Traction company, is a daughter, and she left yesterday afternoon for Briensburg.

What is believed to be the oldest European painting in existence has been found in Crete by the Indian archaeological mission. It is on a sarcophagus, and is supposed to have been made 2500 B. C.

AFTER THE GRIPPE.

Vinol Restored This Man's Strength.

"Several years ago I was attacked by a severe case of grippe, which left me with a hacking cough, soreness in my chest and bronchitis. I took nearly every kind of cough syrup sold on the market, besides medicine given me by physicians.

"I received no permanent relief until my druggist asked me to try Vinol, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured.

"I believe Vinol to be the greatest blessing ever offered to the public, as it does what is claimed for it."—R. B. H. Higgs, Mapleville, Ala.

The reason Vinol cures chronic coughs, colds and pulmonary troubles is because it contains tonic iron and all the healing and body building elements of cod liver oil but no oil.

Vinol is also unexcelled as a strength builder for old people, delicate children, weak and run-down persons, and after sickness.

VINOL is sold in Paducah by W. H. McPherson.

THE ROMANTIC PLAY Graustark

Dramatized from the novel of George Barr McCutcheon, author of "Brewster's Millions."

Stephanie Longfellow and twenty-five other people. A car load of massive scenery.

HOW IT MIGHT HAPPEN. VIII.

There was room inside the car—even on the platform—but these two men wanted to ride on the steps. It was risky for them to ride on the steps, anyway.

But some one wanted to get off and in the narrow space, without a chance to reach for the hand rails, this some one tripped forward and was hurt. It might happen exactly that way.

The steps are put on a car so that people can get on or off. When you stand on the steps you cause the Company some ANXIETY. But you cause the other passengers DISCOMFORT and DANGER. Suppose you are one of the other passengers? Then be cautious—wait till the way is clear, so that you can get off without a CONTORTION. Make it INCONVENIENT for the persons who insist upon riding on the steps.

Mayor Smith Pictured in Chicago Paper as Typical Colonel and Democrat

Friends of Mayor Smith are having great sport with him over a story which appeared in the Sunday issue of the Chicago Record-Herald, and was written by Richard H. Little, who poses as one of the humorists of that sheet. Little represented his newspaper on the junket some thirty members of the Chicago Association of Commerce took last month, and on which they paid Paducah a visit of a few hours, and were entertained by the Commercial club.

Little gave his impressions of The New South, in his article, and if he pictured everything as truly as he reported the political affiliations of the city's young mayor, the fact should, probably, be credited to one thing—that Little imbued to much "battish milk, sah," on the trip. That probably is the only thing that will save him and his paper from a slander suit for damages, for listen to the way he quotes Mayor Smith:

"Ah'm a Democrat, a good Democrat," said the mayor of Paducah. "We are all good Democrats down here. Ah voted for Bryan; we all voted for Bryan—we all voted for Bryan, but we prayed way down in our hearts that Mistah Taft would be elected."

The article is full of fun,—fun poked at the south, in a good natured way, and here are some of its best bits:

Everybody who traveled through the middle south on the Chicago Association of Commerce special train was rapturous over what he found. Everybody but the poet. The business men who made up the association's delegation went into ecstasies because everywhere they heard, the hum of industry, they saw the belching black smoke of countless factories they listened to the clinking of gold, they saw train loads of immigrants, they saw town lots staked out on mountain tops and in palmetto forests. Hence they rejoiced.

But the poet wept. The poet cared not for the new south. He wanted the old south. He wanted the land of flowers, birds and cotton and coconuts and horses and good whiskey, and pretty women and romance and dreams. The poet had been south in other and happier days. At that time, he said, the speeches were all of this tenor:

"We may not have what you call in the north the commercial instinct, sah; we may not have great banks that lure the meagre holdings of widows and orphans and whose cashiers are residing in Canada. (Cheers.) We may not possess great corporations that take wealth from the many to distribute among the few—(cheers)—we may not devote our days and nights chasing the almighty dollar down alleys and across lots and pinch ing it till it looks like a 2-cent postage stamp, sah—(cheers)—but heah in our own beautiful, sun-kissed southland you will find such hospitality, sah, as can only be found in one other country that is fah above the earth and that can only be reached by dyin'g. (Cheers.)"

Dixie of Song and Story. "Heah is the land of coin and wine and milk and flowing honey (cheers) heah you'll find the fastest horses—(cheers)—the best bekah—(cheers)—and the most beautiful women that ever put foot on this great round earth." (Prolonged cheering, during which the band walked around the room playing "Dixie.")

That was in the old days. The poet attended every dinner given in every one of the seventeen cities visited by the association's special train. He listened eagerly for the same old speech. He never heard it. Instead the southern orator always talked in this strain:

"We have built in this little city of ours, in the last five years, so many factories; we have so many banks; we have so many street car lines. We lead the south in this and in that. Immigrants are pouring in on every train. The spot upon which this beautiful building in which we are assembled tonight resta was only three years ago a quagmire. Right here today is the greatest opportunity for investment ever known. Put a dollar in this town today and in two years take out $5 or $25 or $50. Our population is doubling every few years. Men who came here without a dollar only a short time ago are today millionaires. The old, inert stand still days of the south are gone forever. We have come into our own."

At this point the poet would always break down and weep and have to be led trembling from the table.

Tidings of New South. The poet tried to make a composite of all the speeches he heard delivered both by the Chicago boosters and the local boosters of the cities visited. Here is his report.

Members of the Chicago delegation—"We love Chicago, not only because of its great institutions of learning, its art museums, its boulevards, its homes, but because in the banks of Chicago there is a king's ransom. (Prolonged cheering.) We have money—(cheers)—and we can help you. You can help us. We can build up a jointly an empire whose riches will be such as the world has never known." (Prolonged cheering and deafening applause.)

The southern orator—"Yo' all, sah, bring us great tidings. Deepen the channel of the Mississippi valley, and when the Panama canal is finished the ships will bring to our very doors the wealth of the Indies—(cheers)—of China—(cheers)—of Japan—(cheers)—of the whole damned universe." (Prolonged cheers.)

"We'll get down among the old noseback, Bourbon Democracy," said the poet. "They have never changed, and they never will. We'll get down in the country where a Democrat shies and kicks the tailboard out of the wagon and smashes the shafts and breaks the harness and runs away if he even smells a Republican. We'll get to towns where they haven't seen a Republican, and we, from the north will all be suspected of being red-handed Republicans. The only way they can get the best citizens of those towns to meet us will be to blindfold them and hold their noses and back 'em into our cars. Then they'll be liable to shoot their way out. You'll see."

"Yes, sir," went on the poet. "My uncle traveled in a show down here in Kentucky for two years. That is where he got his start for his fortune. He was in the slide show. They had an ossified man and a fat lady and the last of the Aztecs and Jojo the dog-faced boy, and my uncle was the Republican. He had a big sign about how he was captured in the wilds of New England after a terrific struggle, and was 'For the First Time Now on Exhibition in the South.' People came for miles to see him and they used to offer the show manager a thousand dollars for the privilege of hanging him. They would pay a quarter n piece to come in at noon and supper time to see him fed, and colleges would offer big money for his hide, so they could stuff him and put him up in the museum."

But at the very first stop the poet died of mortification. It was in Paducah. The mayor of the town arose to deliver the welcome and the key of the city. When his fine, rich southern tones first cleaved the air the poet brightened up and said: "That's one of 'em. Listen to him."

"Ah'm a good Democrat," said the mayor of Paducah. The poet gurgled with delight. "Ah'm a good Democrat," went on the mayor. "We all are good Democrats down heah. Ah voted for Bryan; we all voted for Bryan—'we all voted for Bryan," said the mayor of Paducah, "but we prayed way down in our hearts that Mistah Taft would be elected."

There was tremendous cheering, in which everybody joined except the poet.

Longs for Touch of "Real" South. "Well, you wait," said the poet, grudgingly. "We're not down south yet."

A harder blow than any other was in store for the poet. "The south is a broad country," he said. "It lives well. It drinks well. Fast horses, pretty women and good whiskey—that's the south."

At Jackson, Tenn., the committee met the Chicago delegation in the hotel. After the usual introductions and handshaking the poet nodded and winked and said:

"You've heard of southern whiskey. Some of the committee have invited me to step next door and have a drink. They're so mysterious that I know they've got a jug of moonshine, real mountain dew, that never paid a cent of government tax, hid away somewhere. Ha, ha! Some of the old south yet lives."

We joined the committee of colonels and walked down the street and turned into a store.

"Gentlemen," said one of the colonels, taking off his broad-brimmed hat and moping his brow, "what'll you all have?"

"Just straight for mine," said the poet in a dry voice. "Anything you like," said the colonel. "Sassafrasilla, rashberry, gin-jah ale, cildah or some nice fresh but-tahmilk. What shall it be, sabs?"

The poet moved his lips, but no words came. I said: "Well, sah, if it please you, co'nel, Ah'll take but-tahmilk." They had me talking that way by that time.

But the poet refused to give up. "There's one place that, in all this wave of business enterprise and new eras and prohibition movements and reforms, can never be stirred from its rock-ribbed foundations," he declared earnestly, "and that's dear old Hot Springs. The romance of cards, the big games for high stakes that furnished the settings for some of the best stories ever written about the south, and horse racing, with some of the sleekest coated thoroughbreds that Dixie ever produced, we'll find at last behind the impenetrable breast-works of that dear Hot Springs. Hot Springs for Hot Springs."

The Lid on Hot Springs. The poet led the way from the station on the run to one of the old clubs, where he said they had the roof on rollers so that it could be moved out of the way when the game got to going big. We found boards nailed across the front of the club, and through the windows we saw the place was dusty and dismantled.

"Not in doin', gen'l'men," said a native who stood sorrowfully on the sidewalk and watched us. "They hain't a pokah game in Hot Springs and not a wheel turnin'."

The poet almost had paralysis. "Well, anyhow," he said, after a struggle, "we'll go out and take a look at the ponies. Come on out to the track."

"Hain't no hoss racin' neither," said the native. "The lid's on, gen'l'men, an' she's on good and tight, sah."

"Anyhow," said the poet, "I don't see any factories belching out black smoke, and I've been in the town five minutes and nobody has told me bow your wholesale business has quadrupled in the last three months, and, thank heaven, none of your people are wearing buttons proclaiming: 'Greater Hot Springs. 1,000,000 population in 2209.'"

The native looked indignant. "Ostrich Farm is Marvel."

"No, sah," he said, "but we've got an' a niggabter farm that's doublin' its output all the time, sah, an' they's a ostrich farm heah with 150 birds, sah, and the whole country is looking right this way for its ostrich feathers, sah, and in another yeah Hot Springs will control the ostrich feather an' the Yewster algg industry of this country, sah. It's a new day in Hot Springs, sah; we're waking up down in these yere palms."

The poet gave a hollow groan and fled down the street with the native still pursuing him and telling him how the boarding houses of Chicago would soon use nothing but Hot Springs ostrich eggs, because one egg would give breakfast and luncheon to all the boarders, with enough left over to make nine cakes and sixteen quarts of frosting.

Once more the poet took to the woods. But he was clinging to one last straw.

He had fled from all the talk of factories and the stopping of immigration to the west because the public lands were all gone and the turn of the tide to the south where great opportunities were waiting on every hand, and deep water ways and the commerce of the world coming up the Mississippi and timber development and all the rest of it had taken refuge in the smoking car forward of the special coaches.

"The new south," he said plaintively, "may turn its back on every tradition that was held sacred, but one thing they will always worship down in Dixie and that is a pretty woman. That's the one boasted southern produce that will never be discounted."

Poet's South Fades Away. "Look a-bere, son," said the stranger or in the seat with him. "Tha's a box of foolishness about pretty women. Ah don't reckon we're any foolisher about 'em down here no no' then anyhow else. Ah don't think tha's so much moonshine an' poetry an' nonsense down this way about 'em that there used to be. Pretty women ah very much alike, sah, th' world around; yo' can wot' foh 'em an' slave foh 'em an' eat yo' heart out ovah 'em, an' when they kahn't use yo' any mo' they drop yo' like a niggab doer a green watahmillion. No, sah we hain't so crazy in the haid about pretty women down this yer way as we used to woe."

The poet sadly fled back to the parlor car of the delegation, where the chairman of a local committee was waving his arms and declaiming: "Thah is no No'h. 'Thah is no South. 'Thah is no East. 'Thah is no West. 'We ah again a reunited peepul, sah. 'We ah the valley peepul. 'Oh, hell, said the poet.

Had a Close Call. Mrs. Ada L. Croom, the widely known proprietor of the Croom Hotel, Vaughn, Miss., says: "For several months I suffered with a severe cough and consumption seemed to have griped on me, when a friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery, began taking it, and three bottles effected a complete cure." The fact of this life saving cough and consumption, and lung and throat trouble is world wide. Sold at all drug stores, 50c, and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Personally appeared before me this Dec. 1, 1908, R. D. MacMillan, business manager of The Sun, who affirms that the above statement of the circulation of The Sun for the month of November, 1908, is true to the best of his knowledge and belief.

My commission expires January

Daily Thought.

He who gives a child an inspiration for life does more than he who teaches a rule in grammar.

When Simon says "thumbs up," it

Hayti; thumbs are up.

If it is true that a creamery combine has cornered all the storage butter for the last year, the butter market will be strong the rest of the winter.

Levi Huff apparently has completely lost sight of the theory of organizational system.

And, of course, if we have war with Japan, Russia will help us.

Isn't it funny that whenever a person or a nation gets whipped, something else does it so much good as to see some one else whipped by the same party?

The French are nice people and hate a scandal. Everybody thought

Pauline was poisoned, but they have opened his funeral and hushed up talk and it wouldn't get out. Pauline was dead and it wouldn't do any good to besmirch his memory with stories of his amours. That's the way France did with the Dreyfus case. A bas la Bum France!

Dr. J. N. McCormack, of Bowling

Green, stands high in professional repute, and is a great advocate of sanitation away from home; but it is not popularly known, perhaps, as he is reported that he was cited by the Bowling Green board of health to appear in the police court on a warrant, charging him with gross violation of the most common laws of sanitation around a public building he owned, and he got out of the scrape by presenting a pardon signed by Governor

Beckham and dated October 4, 1907.

HUMAN NATURE ASSERTS ITSELF.

Human nature is a factor always to be considered in every organization of men. There is a deal of it cropping out in the dark tobacco situation. Much is being said pro and con about the trouble between the association and its members; but Gallop down the trouble is that the association should have sold the 1907 crop of tobacco and it has not.

Reason it has not, is that it priced the tobacco too high. The heat of it was sale, and as the tobacco was regarded and reduced the buyers kept taking up bargains, but they left the lik of it alone; and the longer bas kept on hand the lower it had to be graded to attract the buyers, because the season of the 1908 crop is approaching and the buyers are afraid to overstock in anticipation of a glut of the market.

If the 1907 crop had been sold at good profit, there would have been talk of loose leaf, and of not winning the books of the association.

There is only one thing in this world that is inexcusable and that is failure. If some of the big industrial plants had gone to smash and needed their constituent companies of America's greatest finan-cialists would have been hounded to the voluntary by manufacturers, who aged their enterprises. They made money and everybody was satisfied with the methods.

The tobacco association failed to sell out, and it looks as if everybody is dissatisfied with the methods.

That's human nature.

The farmer's point of view is plain. He pooled his tobacco last year and the independents sold out around ten cents early in the season, getting cash for their loose stock.

The association held its tobacco above the market price and Robertson county, Tenn., practically sold out, but most of the rest was re-graded. In the spring it began to go for seven and eight cents, out of which came the cost of the pool.

Most of the lugs probably will be lumped presently to a foreign buyer for about five cents, which will not the farmers something like three cents for their lugs, compared with the nine and ten cents the independents got last January. Some of those lugs are worth more than five cents and some less. The farmer who was careful about his tobacco will get less than they were worth, and the farmer, who was careless about his,

will get more than they are worth.

Some farmers complain that their well prepared tobacco was packed in hogheads with badly cured tobacco of the same grade and their good tobacco was spoiled by the bad. Some farmers bought land, when tobacco went up and gave their notes; some croppers needed money to meet their rent; all have been hard times while waiting for their money and some have waited nearly a year for it.

They charge that when more than one farmer has tobacco in a hog-head, all have to pay full charges for prizing and storing the tobacco, and they do not know who owns the stock in the association, or where the profits go.

On the other hand, the association leaders say the demand to inspect the books is made by their enemies, and they do not intend to expose themselves. They insist that a certain amount of secrecy is necessary to prevent their enemies disrupting the pool. They insist that past evidences of loyalty to the association are sufficient to disprove these assersions.

Planters are demanding a loose leaf pool, which means an agreement, as we understand it, to hold out for a certain price; but for each farmer to sell his tobacco to whom he pleases at the pooled price. They say that the loose leaf pool was the intention of the original Dark District Tobacco Growers' association, in which the planters had some voice.

It was superseded into the Planters'

Protective association, the capital stock of which was reduced and the authority more concentrated.

The association leaders say such a pool would not hold together; if the buyers should hold aloof for a time, some hard pressed farmers would dump their product for what they could get.

One thing is evident; it is the planters themselves, and not the trust buyers, who are raising this rumpus with Felix Ewing, and that makes it serious.

THE PARTING OF THE WAYS.

It is difficult to credit reports that

Mayor Smith is taking a hand in factional politics and intends to appoint men to the board of councilmen with the view of carrying out a deal for the division of spoils. We decline even to believe that Mayor Smith has been coerced into acquiescence by a threat to oppose him in the council unless he obeys the dictates of the state makers. No one would have just cause to criticize Mayor

New Discovery Cures Eczema and Eradicates Minor Skin Troubles Overnight.

A few months ago the dispensers of Poslam, the new discovery for the cure of eczema, decided to allow the druggists of the country to handle it. Previous to that time it could only be obtained direct from the laboratories.

Since this change in the method of distribution, Poslam has met with the most phenomenal success of anything introduced to the drug trade in the last 30 years. All leading druggists, including Gilbert's in Paducah, are now carrying the special 50-cent size recently adopted, also the $2 jar.

This great success is not surprising when it is remembered that, in eczema cases, Poslam stops the itching with first application, proceeds to heal immediately, and cures chronic cases in a few weeks. In minor skin troubles, such as pimples, blackheads, acne, herpes, blotches, rash, etc., results show after an overnight application. Experimental samples of Poslam are sent to anyone by mail free of charge, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

Trade of the United States with its American neighbors in 1907 amounted to nearly $1,000,000,000, against a little more than a third as much a decade ago.

NO POLITICS IN INAUGURATION

Democrat is Chairman of the Committee.

Notable Demonstration Promised When Judge Taft Takes Oath of Office.

SOME MILITARY FEATURES.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The inauguration of President-elect Taft promises to be one of the most notable demonstrations in the history of the national capital. Washington, which takes plenty of time to prepare for these ceremonies, already is in the throes of expectancy over the coming inauguration.

When an inauguration is on the tapis, so to speak, the capital city always arises in a beautifully non-partisan spirit to the occasion. Politics is lost sight of, and the business men of the city co-operate harmoniously and effectively in trying to make the affair a success.

This explains the fact that the chairman of the inauguration committee, appointed the other day by National Chairman Hitchcock, is a Democrat, Edward J. Stellwagen, who will serve in that important capacity, never has been anything but a Democrat. As a resident of the District of Columbia, he has not had a vote but he has been free and outspoken in the expression of his political preferences. He is a friend, politically and personally, of William J. Bryan, and those who know him best never have doubted that if he had been permitted to vote in the recent election he would have cast a ballot for Mr. Bryan.

Praise the Selection.

It may seem strange to some straight-laced partisans that a Democrat should be put at the head of the committee that is to arrange for the inauguration of a Republican president; but here in Washington the political phase of the question never has been given a moment's consideration. The people of Washington have only praise for Mr. Hitchcock's selection. If he had searched the city with a fine-toothed comb he could not have been able to find a man who would give such general satisfaction. Mr. Stellwagen is a middle-aged business man of great talent, who has risen from a subordinate position in one of the governmental departments to be a recognized leader in the business circles of the city. He is remarkably successful in everything he undertakes.

Will Be Great Show.

The inauguration of Mr. Taft will not resemble, in its essential features, the inauguration of President Roosevelt four years ago, but it will be a great show, nevertheless. It will be lacking in the human curiosities that formed such a distinctive part of the Roosevelt inaugural parade. President Roosevelt has an eye for the unique, and volunteer attractions of a more or less ridiculous character came to Washington from various parts of the country to participate in the inaugural. They were assigned to the rear section of the parade, which reminded visitors of the old-fashioned hippodrome.

Military Features.

The Taft inaugural parade will have no hippodrome section, but it will contain some very imposing military features that will be an impressive object lesson of the power and dignity of the government. The fact that Mr. Taft has been secretary of war—the most popular secretary in a long list of occupants of that office—has inspired the army with a desire to participate as it never has participated before, and the same eagerness is manifested in the navy and militia.

Rejoicing in Philippines.

Throughout the Philippine Islands, where Mr. Taft formerly served as governor-general, there is great rejoicing over his elevation to the presidency. This is reflected in all of the Philippine newspapers, which tell of preparations that are being made for a representation of the Philippine archipelago at the inauguration. The late brown men fairly idolize Taft and they are going to send their most eminent leaders to Washington to

INCREASES WEIGHT QUICKLY.

Simple Way for the Thin and Pale to Be Plump and Rosy.

Samose can hardly be termed a medicine; it is in reality a flesh forming food. Taken before or after meals, it mingles with the food you eat, enables it to assimilate and readily digest, so as to make rich blood and pleasing plumpness.

After Samose has been used a week or ten days a noticeable gain in weight is seen. The sallow complexion will become rosy, the sunken cheeks will have a ruddy glow, the eyes will be bright, the breath sweet and the step elastic.

Use Samose for a month and all the flesh of the body will be firm and solid, and the outlines beautiful and symmetrical.

With the return of good health following the use of Samose, emaciation is overcome, and the thin and scrawny are once more plump and rosy.

W. H. McPherson's customers have told him of the remarkable results following the use of Samose, the great flesh forming food, and he is so thoroughly convinced of its reliability that he is willing to under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not do all that is claimed for it. You who are thin and in poor health cannot afford to let another day pass without getting a 50c box of Samose on those terms.

The Philippine military band, a musical organization known all over the world, will come to Washington to occupy a prominent place in the parade, and it will be accompanied by a detachment of Filipino scouts. Porto Rico also will be represented in the parade.

There is already considerable rivalry among military organizations in this country for the honor of serving as the presidential escort on inauguration day. Troop A, of Cleveland, one of the crack cavalry troops of the country, has made application for that honor through Colonel Webb C. Hayes, a son of the late President Hayes. This troop was President McKinley's escort in both of his inaugurations. Each time it cost the troop about $10,000 to cover all expenses, including transportation of horses, etc., but the members are willing and eager to shoulder the expense again if they can have the coveted position of honor. The horses rode by the troopers are coal black, but there are intimations that in the past a pardonable use of dye has been resorted to in converting certain white spots to the proper hue.

Indiana's Part.

There is some speculation as to what part, if any, Indiana will have in the inaugural parade. Four years ago, when President Roosevelt was inaugurated, the state was without representation. Those who have charge of the inaugural management hope that Indiana will send some of its military or political organizations, or both, to help to make the Taft inaugural a success. The Hoosier state will have no difficulty securing an advantageous position in the marching column if it desires to be represented. At the proper time Chairman Stellwagen will lay the matter before a number of prominent citizens and political organizations in the state for such action as may be deemed proper.

MOTHER BATTLES WITH DAUGHTER TO KILL HER

Memphis, Dec. 2.—In a desperate battle between mother and daughter with a vital of death dealing carbolic acid as a weapon, Mrs. Nicholas P. Errington, 242 Schiller street, Chicago, killed her daughter, Theresa, 10 years old, and then committed suicide at the Peabody hotel early Tuesday.

Apparently driven insane because of ill health Mrs. Errington, wife of a prominent Chicago business man, and living in a fashionable residence section, came to Memphis from Hot Springs, where she was temporarily sojourning, registered under an assumed name, made all arrangements for the death of her child and herself, and then proceeded to carry out her plan. The only interruption came in a defense on the part of the little girl.

At the National Suffrage convention recently held in Buffalo one woman contributed $10,000 to the cause.

ANNUAL REPORT OF PUBLIC WORKS

Will be Made as Soon as Data is Collected.

Street Department Made Remarkably Good Showing for November, 1908.

SOME WORK THAT IS PLANNED.

Suggested improvements for next year, and data for the annual report of the board of public works was an interesting topic of discussion last night at the meeting of the board. City Engineer Washington will make estimates for the cost of various proposed improvements; so that the amount of money necessary may be appropriated, although it is doubtful whether the board is given a generous appropriation for next year. Mayor Smith is anxious to have reports from all the departments in as early a possible, and the board gave instructions to all of the departments to have in the reports with needs and recommendations by December 20.

Residents on South Eighth and Ninth streets were before the board and they want a bridge built across the hollow from the foot of George street to the east side, so that the children may cross to school. In dry weather the children pass through the hollow, but when the back water rises this is cut off, and the residents are prevented from using Murray street because of no street intersecting Seventh street beyond Hubbards street. To erect a foot bridge would be considerable expense and the members thought it better to erect a bridge or make a fill suitable for wagons. City Engineer Washington made a rough estimate that the cost would be about $5,000. He will make some surveys and the probability of building it or making the fill may be included in the board's recommendations for next year.

Nothing definite has been determined upon the question of sprinkling city streets next year. Several letters have been written to prospective bidders about the probable cost, but replies have been received from them asking how the bids are wanted, to get more definite data collected it was decided for the board. Mayor Smith and City Engineer Washington to confer. A meeting was arranged for next Thursday night, when the question will be discussed.

Reports.

Reports from the city electric lighting plant, and sewer and street department were accepted and filed. J. J. Keckler, of the light department was given an allowance of $9,000 for 1908, and the expenses of October gave a balance of $7,341. Without a serious mishap to the machinery about $500 will be left over from the allowance due to economy, which has been a watchword with the administration. E. B. Bell, street inspector filed a report in which he showed a comparison with the expense of November, 1907. The payroll in 1907, if the department amounted to $809.17, while this year the payroll amounted to $470.55, a reduction of $338.62. The expense last year was $203.90, while this year it was $21.51, a saving of $179.99 on the month. Last year in November $1,779.79 worth of gravel was purchased, but this November no gravel was purchased. A total reduction of $2,197.70 was made, according to the comparison with the figures for November, 1907, and November, 1908.

Superintendent Keckler reported that he had been unable to meet the light and power company to count the number of city poles rented by the company. The board directed him to charge the company with the same number as last year, unless the officials make the count with him before December 10. The light and power company pays 25 cents the pole rent.

The city will anchor a guy wire in front of the property of W. R. Holland, Twelfth street and the Castro road, but it will be removed at any time when requested.

The boiler insurance on the boilers of the lighting plant will expire soon, and the board decided to resolve bills for a renewal. Regular inspections will be required. Notice will be given later, as soon as the date of expiration is looked up.

The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad several months ago decided to put in drain pipes in order to drain water off Sixth street between Norton and Jones streets. The board approved the plans, but work was never started, owing to a misunderstanding. A representative of the railroad was present, and work will probably start at once. Grades will be given by the city when the material has arrived.

Notice was given the Pittsburgh Coal company to clear Washington street from First street to the river of a shed, fill an excavation and to remove all obstructions.

The minutes of the last regular meeting and a called meeting were adopted. President Richard Hardy and Secretary Louis Kohl were present at last night's meeting, Mr. W. F. Katterjohn being the absentee.

GARBAGE REMOVAL

WILL INTEREST CITY AUTHORITIES THIS WINTER.

Practice of Dumping Offal Into the Stream is Penalized by Federal Government.

Practice of dumping the carcasses of animals into the Ohio river must cease, according to a letter that Mayor James P. Smith has received from an official of the government. The city has a contract with Frank Wagner for hauling and dumping the carcasses of animals into the river, but at present he is remodeling them and an extra bill for the expense will be introduced into the council next Monday night. It is a violation of the federal laws and a heavy penalty is attached.

The warning no doubt will bring up the question again of the city establishing an incinerating plant for the disposal of all garbage. Movements have started for a purification of the river, and just recently the state government has decided to send some experts down the Ohio river from Ashland to Hickman in order to make a study of how the Kentucky cities are disposing of the garbage. Probably some provision will be made next year for ridding the city of the garbage in a more up-to-date manner.

TOBACCO NEWS

Hopkinsville Tobacco.
Hopkinsville, Ky., Dec. 1.—In direct contradiction to the heavy sales of tobacco here week before last came the extremely dull period of last week. Sales were the minimum for the season, there being seemingly no demand.

General satisfaction is felt in the success of the buyers of their tobacco, and it is believed these deals will assist greatly in selling the dark tobacco of this district. A deal is now on between the Imperial Tobacco company and the Planters' Protective association, but no definite agreement has been reached. It is believed that it will be made, however, and that the Imperial will take a large part of the crop.

LIVESTOCK.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 1.—Cattle.—Receipts were 1,993 head, a light run than had been anticipated, and with a fairly liberal attendance of buyers on the yards, the market displayed a little more activity. Choice heavy-weight butchers' cattle sold higher than at the close of last week, or just about the same as a week ago today, but medium and inferior kinds held very close to the closing prices of the week. There was a good, healthy demand for the best feeders and stockers, as well as good-weight sows, around steady prices. Medium and common stock cattle continued dull and drab. Bulls were firm. Canners and cutters slow and unchanged, milk cows steady. No heavy cattle worth speaking of on sale. The feeding on that class about steady. Where Bullets Flew.

David Parker, of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitters have done me more good than five hundred dollars worth of medicine. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c, at all druggists.

TURKISH TOBACCO FOR THIS STATE

Governor Willson Interested in Suggestion.

Importers of Cigaret Tobacco Write to Chief Executive About Its Culture.

OPPORTUNITY FOR WEALTH

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 2.—Kentucky soil, especially that of Central Kentucky and the Ohio river valley, is the best adapted to the growth of Turkish tobacco of any in the world. This is the information received by Governor Willson in a letter from Notara Brothers, Turks, who own a large Turkish cigarette factory in New York city. Notara Brothers stated in the letter that they had been experimenting in raising Turkish tobacco in New York state and had done it successfully, but that they knew the soil of Kentucky was even better adapted for the cultivation of the weed than that of New York.

It is stated in the letter that the imports of Turkish tobacco in America had increased from $25,000 to $4,000,000 in 12 years. In 10 years more it is believed the imports will be three times that amount. The best quality sells for $1 a pound, while the most inferior brings 50 cents a pound. The Turks state that if the growers in Kentucky will begin the cultivation of Turkish tobacco it will add millions of dollars to their income annually.

They desire Governor Willson to suggest the name of some farmer who will let them use 50 acres of virgin soil, that is, soil in which tobacco has not been raised. They propose to pay for the use of the land and will send a squad of Turks to Kentucky to cultivate the crop.

The tobacco is not raised in Turkey like it is in Kentucky, and the method used is not explained in the letter. Notara Brothers predict that it will not be long until only Turkish tobacco will be smoked and seem to think that a golden opportunity awaits Kentucky to introduce the cultivation of it in America.

Governor Willson is much interested in the prospect of adding millions of dollars annually to the income of the Kentucky farmers. He has written to Prof. M. A. Scovell, dean of the Kentucky experiment station, requesting him to take up the matter and suggest the name of some farmer.

The Chief Swaps Horses.
The Chief James Wood has swapped horses in his department to rid the department of horses that could not stand the gait required of fire horses. "Jake," the horse used for the No. 4 truck, and "Dan," a horse that has been on the farm, were traded to John Doyle for a claybank horse for the truck. The new horse is named "Ed" and the cognomen will be retained. The new horse is a fast runner and Chief Wood made a good trade.

A Very Wrong Idea
A Young Man Had It.

A well known young man said the other day: "I would like to start a bank account if I could ever save up enough money to do so." That is the idea a great many people have, that they must have $40 to $50 to start. That is wrong, very wrong. The way to start a bank account is to bring a few dollars to us each salary day and place it in our Savings Department, where it draws 4 per cent interest and you will be surprised how fast it will grow.
